

Our Philosophy

To believe what women tell us

To be non-judgemental

To recognise and work with survival strategies and coping mechanisms

To recognise it is an individual's decision whether she reports to the police

To help a woman identify her options – not to decide for her what she should do

To empower and enable women

To validate feelings whatever they are

To dispel the myths surrounding rape and abuse

To treat all women as individuals

To provide support for change

Donations

As a charity we rely heavily on donations and fundraising to support our work. All of the services we provide are free. However if you are able to, and would like to, make a contribution to the cost of providing your support it would be gratefully received. All funds received are put back into WRSASC so that we can continue to provide this valuable service.

Seeking Help and Making Contact

If you would like to seek help or talk to another woman about your experiences, you can contact us by phone, post or email. Or, if you wish, you can ask a friend or professional (nurse, doctor, social worker etc.) to contact us on your behalf.

Our aim is to provide a service that is caring, understanding and supportive. When you call WRSASC you will be treated with respect and sensitivity. We understand how difficult it can be to call and we will do all that we can to support you.

About WRSASC

Since 1986 WRSASC has provided a free, confidential and non-judgemental support service for women who have experienced rape, assault, incest, sexual abuse, sexual harassment or any form of sexual attack, whether physical, verbal or emotional.

The trauma caused by sexual abuse may not surface for many years after the event. We treat all calls equally sensitively and confidentially, appreciating the courage required to break silence, overcome guilt and threats, and share the events of the past whether they happened days or years ago.

WRSASC

Is run by women for women aged 16+.
